

~ALL~

The Adolescent & Adult Language & Literacy Clinic

Support for Students Struggling with Reading, Writing, & Organizing
Towson University Speech, Language, Hearing Center

ALL for Adolescents

- Does your child seem to
 - Be delayed in developing reading skills?
 - Struggle with letter-sound connections?
 - Struggle when reading words?
 - Read more slowly than others his or her age?
 - Sound “choppy” when reading aloud?
 - Have trouble understanding what he or she reads?
 - Have a lot of spelling errors?
 - Struggle figuring out what to write?
 - Struggle with how to get started writing?
 - Have trouble organizing his or her thoughts to complete a writing assignment?
 - Struggle with grammar, punctuation, capitalization, spelling, and/or vocabulary in his or her writing?
 - Have trouble keeping his or her papers organized?
 - Have trouble getting assignments completed and submitted on time?

- We are here to help you!
 - We provide low-cost comprehensive assessments in the areas of reading and writing.
 - We diagnose reading and writing disorders and make recommendations for treatment and necessary accommodations in school.
 - We provide low-cost therapy services for school-age children struggling with reading, organizing, and/or writing.

- Please contact Dr. Karen Fallon through the Towson University Speech, Language, and Hearing Center
 - Phone: (410) 704-3095
 - Email: kfallon@towson.edu

ALL for University Students

- Do you seem to have more trouble than your friends do with
 - Reading words?
 - Spelling words?
 - Keeping up with your readings for class?
 - Understanding what you read?
 - Keeping yourself and your things organized?
 - Writing papers?

- We are here to help you!
 - We provide low-cost comprehensive assessments in the areas of reading and writing. Services are free of charge for TU students.
 - We diagnose reading and writing disorders and make recommendations for treatment and necessary accommodations.
 - We provide low-cost therapy services for college students struggling with reading, organizing, and/or writing. Services are free for TU students.

- Please contact Dr. Karen Fallon through the Towson University Speech, Language, and Hearing Center
 - Phone: (410) 704-3095
 - Email: kfallon@towson.edu